

4-1-2014

Sigmund Freud

Bettyann Zevallos

Recommended Citation

Zevallos, Bettyann, "Sigmund Freud" (2014). Lesson Plans. 62.
<https://via.library.depaul.edu/tps-lesson-plans/62>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Teaching with Primary Sources Program at Via Sapientiae. It has been accepted for inclusion in Lesson Plans by an authorized administrator of Via Sapientiae. For more information, please contact wsulliv6@depaul.edu, c.mcclure@depaul.edu.

Sigmund Freud

by

Bettyann Zevallos

Maria High School

Chicago, Illinois

Psychology Lesson Plan (12th grade)

Length of Time: 1 Week

Standards (The National Standards for the Teaching of High School Psychology):

Content Standard 1: Define personality

Performance Standard 1.1: Define personality.

*Personality is defined as "an individual's characteristic pattern of thinking, feeling, and acting."

Content Standard 2: Theories of personality

Performance Standard 2.1 Identify the psychodynamic perspective.

*Discuss Sigmund Freud's view of the mind. Review the concepts of a conscious, preconscious, and unconscious mind.

*Present the Freudian concepts of free association and a slip of the tongue.

*Explore how the id, ego, and superego interact according to psychoanalytic theory.

*Explain how defense mechanisms are helpful.

*Discuss Freud's psychosexual stages of development:

Students will participate in the following:

- Read David Myers textbook chapter on Sigmund Freud

Technology Required: Computers in Media Center (Freud Scavenger Hunt)

LCD Projector connected to laptop

PowerPoint Software

Assessment Tool: Formal (Test)

Informal (class discussion, Freud scavenger hunt with a partner)