DE DICATION

UPON A GOOD foundation a good building is made," declares an old proverb. Likewise are good law reviews constructed, and the tenth anniversary issue of the DE PAUL LAW REVIEW is no exception. The origins of this book, both immediate and remote, are traceable to one individual. Not only did he organize and train the first editorial boards and staffs, but in his mind as well was conceived the suggestion—unanimously adopted by the editors—that this issue of the REVIEW be devoted to ten years of developments in Illinois law. Bearing witness to the solidity of the substratum he laid a decade ago, and serving also as a tribute to the wisdom of his policy of guidance without dictation, are the unifying tradition and spirit of the REVIEW that have remained unchanged as its pages have passed beneath the blue pencils of heterogeneous editorial personalities. It is therefore with the realization that this is an honor which he well deserves that the tenth anniversary edition of the DE PAUL LAW REVIEW is dedicated to its faculty director, Professor Francis J. Seiter.
