Event Recaps

Faculty Speaking Engagements » This fall, alumni across the country got to learn from DePaul’s excellent faculty firsthand. Associate Professor Mark Potosnak spoke to the Arizona alumni chapter about climate change, Professor Clara Orban gave the Washington, D.C., chapter a lecture on the “world of wine” and Associate Professor Suzanne Bell spoke to alumni in Naperville, Ill., about her research on the best way to assemble a team of astronauts to travel to Mars.

Young Alumni Mixology Class on Sept. 28 » Ever wondered how to make a good Manhattan? Or what a muddler does? DePaul graduates gathered at Whole Foods in Lincoln Park to learn the art of crafting the perfect cocktail. In addition to learning the recipes for a few classic drinks, they practiced the basic techniques—shaking, straining and, yes, muddling—that make cocktails great.

Annual Fall Tour: Graceland Cemetery on Oct. 2 » Cemeteries can teach us a surprising amount about the world around us. On a guided tour of Graceland Cemetery, alumni learned how its many esteemed “residents,” including Marshall Field, Daniel Burnham and Louis Sullivan, shaped the Chicago that we know and love today.
