Foreword to the Judicial Symposium

Robert W. Karr

Follow this and additional works at: https://via.library.depaul.edu/law-review

Recommended Citation

Robert W. Karr, Foreword to the Judicial Symposium, 19 DePaul L. Rev. 441 (1970)
Available at: https://via.library.depaul.edu/law-review/vol19/iss3/2

This Front Matter is brought to you for free and open access by the College of Law at Via Sapientiae. It has been accepted for inclusion in DePaul Law Review by an authorized editor of Via Sapientiae. For more information, please contact wsulliv6@depaul.edu, c.mcclure@depaul.edu.
FOREWORD

This unique edition of the DePaul Law Review is the direct result of a seminar on Judicial Reform held at the College of Law in April, 1970. Under the committee leadership of Professor Robert Emmett Burns, four state supreme court justices, as well as a trial court judge and others involved in directing aspects of the judicial system, were brought together at DePaul to lecture, discuss, and debate the pressing issues confronting our court system today. Inspired by the stimulating, frank, and informative lectures, the DePaul Law Review sought permission to print certain of those speeches which particularly lent themselves to our printed format. Thus, the lectures of Chief Justice Hunter of Indiana, Justice Holman of Oregon, and Justice Kavanagh of Michigan became the basis of this Symposium on Judicial Reform: Views from the Bench.

Robert W. Karr
Managing Editor